Rotrude by Hildegarde Abbess of Faremoutiers

Rotrude by Hildegarde, Abbess of Faremoutiers

You can actually see where Sanne tried to merge Rotrude by Hildegarde, Abbess of Faremoutiers, with Rothilde de Haudre at this link:

https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/LDS9-1MS

It would be unbelievable except for the fact that it really happened.

DEFINITELY FALSE!!! Rothilde de Haudre, the daughter of Duke Haudre, definitely was not the daughter of Charlemagne nor the Abbess of Faremoutiers!!!

So, how did Rotrude by Hildegarde, the daughter of Charlemagne and Abbess of Faremoutiers, end up on the list of seven women that Sanne keeps merging together into one in order to produce the Abbess of Faremoutiers, the wife of Mainier Sens, and the mother of Gainfroi de Sens?

It's because Sanne keeps erroneously trying to merge every Abbess of Faremoutiers that he encounters with Rothilde de Haudre the daughter of Duke Haudre in some misguided attempt to force Rothilde de Haudre to be the Abbess of Faremoutiers.

https://gw.geneanet.org/sanne5?n=de+haudre&oc=&p=rothilde

And, I fed his obsession by suggesting that Rothilde de Haudre, daughter of Duke Haudre de Yonne, may have been Rotrude de Hesbaye the wife of Ingerman de Hesbaye. Then he jumped to the conclusion, once again erroneously, and decided that Rotrude de Hesbaye is the same person as Rotrude Carolingian, the Abbess of Faremoutiers. Once again, another individual gets merged together with Rothilde de Haudre in order to produce a SINGLE Abbess of Faremoutiers by a dozen different names.

Sanne keeps merging seven different women together into one on Family Search and Geneanet, and all the subtle differences get lost when he does. The two of the seven residing in completely separate generations with the same names seem to be preserved; but, the other five or six who lived at the same time in the same area get destroyed whenever Sanne merges them together into ONE. My intention is to document why they should be separate individuals on Family Search and Geneanet rather than being merged into ONE as if they were the same person, when they clearly are not.

Anyone else would correct their errors once they are exposed, but not Sanne. Instead, he continues to promote them, and he therefore continues to delete these people from existence on Family Search by merging them together into ONE.

Rotrude, Abbess of Faremoutiers, the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne and Hildegard of Vinzgouw.

Rotrude by Hildegard Abbess of Faremoutiers

775 to 06 June 0810

http://ultimate-law-of-thermodynamics.com/Roricon-I-comte-du-Maine/

So, what's the problem?

There are in fact TWO different daughters of Charlemagne who have been given the title, "Abbess of Faremoutiers"! Two of them!

You see, they can't determine whether the Abbess of Faremoutiers was in fact Rotrude the DAUGHTER of Hildegard of Vinzgouw, or Ruodhaid the DAUGHTER of Madelgarde de Lommois.

The only thing we know for sure is that the Abbess of Faremoutiers was NOT Rothilde de Haudre the DAUGHTER of Duke Haudre de Yonne, as some people insist. It's physically impossible for the DAUGHTER of Duke Haudre to also be the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne.

https://gw.geneanet.org/sanne5?n=de+haudre&oc=&p=rothilde

At the above link, we observe Sanne erroneously merging Rothilde de Haudre with the Abbess of Faremoutiers to produce a Fictional Hybrid that he's calling Rothilde the Abbess of Faremoutiers or Rotrude the Abbess of Faremoutiers. Then this Fictional Hybrid ends up on Family Search in at least these two spots:

Fictional Hybrid Rotrude de Charlemagne, All Seven Women Merged into ONE

https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G9DF-W2N

Rotrude de Haudre, MERGED INTO ONE HUGE MESS

https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/GMQM-NMS

It's obvious to everyone but Sanne that Rotrude the daughter of Charlemagne cannot be the daughter of Duke Haudre; and therefore, they shouldn't be merged into one as if they were. It's bad enough that historians can't figure out whether the Abbess of Faremoutiers was in fact Rotrude by Hildegard or Ruodhaid by Madelgarde. Now we have Sanne merging them with Rothilde de Haudre.

These are at least three different women that Sanne is trying to merge into one and call the Abbess of Faremoutiers, if you can believe it!

https://gw.geneanet.org/sanne5?n=de+haudre&oc=&p=rothilde

And there are more!

A convincing case can be made that Rotrude, the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne and Hildegard of Vinzgouw, was NOT the Abbess of Faremoutiers because the Abbess died on 24 March 0852.

Furthermore, a SOLID case can be made that Rotrude, the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne and Hildegard of Vinzgouw, was NOT the wife of Mainier de Sens and the mother of Gainfroi de Sens, because she was in fact the Partner of Roricon I comte du Maine and the mother of Louis abbot of Saint-Denis.

ALL of this information and truth gets lost whenever Sanne starts merging the different daughters of Charlemagne with the daughter of Duke Haudre and starts treating them as if they were one and the same.
